

Cultural Awareness Workshop

Welcome to Virtue Healthcare Education

There is a high over representation of Maori and Pacific Island population's in health, disability, and community services. Statistics show that there are higher levels of unemployment and corrections, and lower levels of health and education amongst Maori and Pasifika. It is the responsibility of everybody who works in health and social services to understand Maori and Pasifika values, the guiding principles of the Treaty of Waitangi and how these effect our work practices. This workshop will educate attendees in a greater understanding of Maori, Pasifika and other major ethnicities in New Zealand. We will look at culturally safe practise within the workplace and different skills and tools to use with different cultures.

QUICK INFO

Duration: 1 full day workshop

Workload: 9.00am – 4.00pm

Training Outcomes

Trainee's will learn to

- understand the different cultural needs and preferences.
- identify importance of the Treaty of Waitangi document.
- describe Māori and Pasifika values and how they apply to your role
- demonstrate an understanding of culturally safe operating principles
- the importance and skills to and involve whanau where appropriate

Location

We come to you! Depending on your circumstances we offer on-site training or local workshops. Contact us if you would like to organise on-site training or to see when the next workshop is happening in your area.

Our Workshops

Our workshops allow participants to learn in a structured and enjoyable environment. Content is up-to-date and specifically tailored to be relevant for the trainees and the environment that they work in. Workshops are designed to be entertaining and interactive to maximise learning outcomes and cater for different learning styles.

If you have any questions about this workshop or this brochure please do not hesitate to contact our workshop organizer

Ben Tairea

Mobile: 022 6990253

Email: ben@virtue.net.nz

Virtue Health Care Education Ltd.

Website: www.virtue.net.nz